In a complex bond environment characterised by low yields and rising interest rates, what is the best approach for laying a solid foundation for a bond portfolio?

Learn about our flexible asset allocation strategy

Carmignac P. Flexible Bond is a currency-hedged bond fund that seeks to seize fixed income opportunities around the world in order to meet the needs of investors looking for a core bond allocation solution. Through a flexible approach, the Fund aims to outperform the fixed income markets and to deliver a positive return over a minimum investment horizon of 3 years while keeping volatility in line with that of the markets¹ :

A broad investment universe

The Fund has access to the entire fixed income universe and its allocation is not constrained by a benchmark: the portfolio is thus constructed solely on a central macroeconomic scenario and on the firmest convictions of the Fund Managers.

Active interest rate risk management

The Fund manages interest rate risk dynamically in order to adapt to all market conditions. It has a wide range of tools and a broad modified duration range (from -3 to +8) that allows it to take advantage of both falling and rising interest rates.

Rigorous bond picking

The managers draw on the expertise of the entire management team and work closely with our credit, emerging markets, and financial sector specialists to select the most attractive issuers and issues in each fixed income segment.

A tried and tested investment process

Guillaume Rigeade and Eliezer Ben Zimra, co-managers of the Fund, have been demonstrating the robustness of their investment process, even in complex environments, since they joined Carmignac in July 2019. In addition to their double-digit performance, they recouped the losses that followed the Covid-19 crisis in just 50 business days, compared with 167 for their peer group average, as represented by their Morningstar² category.
